IN THIS ISSUE

The AFPPS Gazette reports the subsequent efforts of the AFPPS after earning the coveted ISO 9001:2008 Certification for Quality Management System (QMS) in April.

We have the update and initial results of the implementation of the Electronic Procurement and Management Information System (EPMIS) in various units – which noted the positive impact of the system.

In his corner, the Commander rallies all AFPPS personnel to sustain, if not level up, the momentum brought about by the ISO certification and the implementation of EPMIS.

We also have our regular Contracting News, Procurement Centers News Now or CNN wherein AFPPS units report their respective significant activities during the 2nd Quarter, and the Transparency in Action – capturing the religious compliance to procurement processes by different units.

We have in our Photo Gallery the team building and Family Day activities of AFPPS units as part of the leadership's efforts promoting closer family ties, teamwork and camaraderie.

The AFPPS Gazette is introducing Performers' Corner where we will be honoring exemplary AFPPS units and personnel.

COMMANDER'S CORNER

COL ALVIN FRANCIS A JAVIER PA (GSC)

Admittedly, we are still in the process of familiarizing with the system which is relatively new to most, if not all of us. But, just like when we applied for the certification last year, I am very confident that we can do it, and we will do it well.

When we obtained ISO 9001:2008 Certification in April, we also welcomed the responsibility that comes with it – we are not only bound to familiarize ourselves with the system but we must, and we shall, absorb the concepts that come with it.

We will conduct regular training courses that will further strengthen our Quality Management System not only in compliance to the certification's provisions but more importantly to equip our personnel with the proper skills and knowledge, thus providing them with the opportunity for career development.

Admittedly, we are still in the process of familiarizing with the system which is relatively new to most, if not all of us. But, just like when we applied for the certification last year, I am very confident that we can do it, and we will do it well.

Initially, we have created a QMS Core Team tasked to orient all Procurement Centers and Contracting Offices regarding the requirements of ISO 9001:2008 Certification.

I want the ISO-QMS we have here in the Headquarters to cascade down to all AFPPS units so that we can maximize the advantages of the system.

By end of this year, a refresher course on Internal Quality Audit (IQA) is scheduled to further strengthen our QMS.

Aside from the IQA refresher course, the AFPPS leadership has also lined up Corrective Action and Preventive Action (CAPA) Training to be attended by the officers, selected EPs and CEs by the end of this year.

These training will help our personnel to effectively perform root cause analysis, provide accurate correction and corrective action to any nonconformity that might be raised during observations and internal and external audits.

With this, I am encouraging all AFPPS personnel to extend utmost coordination to the QMS Core Team for the smooth conduct of orientation. Feel free to ask questions and raise issues so that we can further improve our systems.

9001:2008 Certification but also in equipping the Service's personnel with the proper skills in auditing.

"While we want to sustain the momentum after earning ISO certification by complying with all the requisites, these training courses would also provide AFPPS personnel with additional knowledge for their professional growth," says Col Javier.

The AFPPS obtained ISO 9001:2008 Certification last April 6, 2015 –highlighting the Service's 10th Founding Anniversary.

Initially, a refresher course on Internal Quality Audit (IQA) was held last May 19-20 with Ms Cristy M Elnar, Consultant and Trainer of Global Management System Inc., presiding.

The IQA refresher course was also part of the AFPPS preparation for the upcoming internal audit which is one of the requirements of ISO 9001:2008.

The IQA training was designed to enhance the auditing skills of the AFPPS auditors by familiarizing themselves with the ISO 9001:2008 requirements and be able to recognize how to state audit findings effectively.

In addition, the internal audit aims to assess the conformity and effectiveness of an organization to the implementation of ISO 9001:2008 QMS and focuses on opportunity for improvement.

"Internal audit is not a fault-finding activity as many believe, on the contrary, it provides opportunity for improvement when taken constructively," stresses Col Javier.

A total of 17 AFPPS officers, enlisted personnel and civilian employees benefitted from the IQA refresher course.

Aside from the IQA refresher course, the AFPPS leadership has also lined up Corrective Action and Preventive Action (CAPA) Training to be attended by the officers, selected EPs and CEs by the end of this year.

"This training will help AFPPS to effectively perform root cause analysis, provide accurate correction and corrective action to any nonconformity that might be raised during observations and internal and external audits," says Col Javier.

Col Javier said he wants the ISO-QMS to cascade down to all Procurement Centers and Contracting Offices to keep them abreast with the standardization.

Initially, the AFPPS QMS Core Team will orient all PCs and COs regarding ISO 9001:2008 requirements starting June.

of the 10th Founding Anniversary celebration of AFPPS last April.

"There is no better way to celebrate our 10th anniversary than with this coveted certification – which we achieved through hard work and dedication," said Col Alvin Francis A Javier PA (GSC).

TUV Rheinland Philippines Inc., a well-respected international audit body renowned for its expertise in evaluating management systems based on international standards, officially awarded the ISO 9001:2008 Certification to AFPPS on April 6. It will be valid for three years.

According to the Development Academy of the Philippines (DAP), the AFPPS is the first procurement office or unit in the government bureaucracy to be ISO 9001:2008 certified.

"It is seldom for government procurement office or unit to vie for ISO certification. But we, at the AFPPS, went against the tide and succeeded," said Javier.

Currently, the AFPPS Headquarters, the General Headquarters Procurement Center and 302nd Contracting Office (CO) were ISO 9001:2008 Certified.

Javier, however, stressed that the AFPPS leadership is determined to have the entire service compliant to international standards to keep in step with the AFP Transformation Roadmap.

"We are determined to have all the units of AFPPS to be compliant to international standards," vowed Javier.

During the anniversary, Javier also reported to AFP Chief of Staff Gen. Gregorio Pio Catapang Jr. the other significant accomplishments of AFPPS, including the automation of field units through its Electronic Procurement Monitoring Information System (EPMIS) and the more than P300 million residuals for Calendar Year 2014 in favor of the government.

With EPMIS and the ISO 9001:2008 Certification, the AFPPS has reduced the delivery period of requested supplies by catered units from the previous 35 working days to only 18 days.

The AFPPS was activated in 2005 after the deactivation of the AFP Logistics Command in compliance to the recommendations of the Feliciano Commission in the aftermath of the July 2003 Oakwood mutiny.

AFPPS hosts AFP Sgt Majors

Sergeant Majors from different AFP units paid a visit to the AFP Procurement Service (AFPPS) Headquarters last May 22.

Col Alvin Francis A Javier PA (GSC), AFPPS Commander, warmly welcomed the Sergeant Majors led by SMS Hernani C Montero PA, Assistant Sergeant Major of the Philippine Army.

Col Javier poses with the visiting Sergeant Majors, led by SMS Montero

During the sergeant majors courtesy call, Col Javier briefed them on the history of AFPPS.

The Commander proudly announced that the AFPPS is the first government procurement office that is ISO 9001:2008 certified and that the Service is now aiming for full automation with its Electronic Procurement Monitoring System (EPMIS).

Col Javier also toured the sergeant majors around various units inside the AFPPS Headquarters. The SMs were surprised on the innovations they witnessed at the AFPPS.

After the courtesy call, a troop information and education (TI&E) for Metro Manila-based Enlisted Personnel of AFPPS was conducted with SMS Montero as the invited guest lecturer.

A reliable instructor from Philippine Army Training Command and AFP GSC for the Sergeant Major Course, SMS Montero gave an informative discussion about the latest policy regarding the Attrition System in the AFP.

The visit of the Sergeant Majors was capped with Col Javier issuing his guidance to the EPs, citing their important role in the Service.

Electronic system yields positive responses from stakeholders fully starting April 1, 2015.

“As observed during the short period of operation, this information technology solution proved to enhance accountability, transparency, improve the efficiency of the procurement process and decrease the cost involved in traditional purchasing wherein most of the paperwork is eliminated, thereby cutting the cost and time required,” says Lt Col Prudencio A Iddoba (OS) PA, Commanding Officer of GHQPC.

“The system also enhanced internal Fiscal Controls thru system-based validation of UPRs. Likewise, significant effects are evidence in terms of procurement timeline reduction, enhance the monitoring of procurement projects, availability of real-time data/reports for analysis and decision making,” he adds.

According to Lt Col Iddoba, the new process needs total cooperation from all stakeholders such as the end-users where the unit procurement requests based on the approved Annual Procurement Plan emanate and serve as the triggering instrument of the procurement activities.

The 408th Contracting Office (CO), which launched EPMIS only last February 18, 2015, reported “remarkable progress” in processing transactions by using the system.

“The EPMIS transformed 408th CO into a faster and efficient office in processing procurement transactions,” says Maj Donald C Hugo PA, 408th CO chief.

According to Maj Hugo, as of second quarter of 2015, the office managed to process P22,078,061.99 worth of transactions –53.9 percent through negotiated contract while 52.1 percent using shopping as mode of procurement. While there were initial problems, primarily on the technical aspect, during the launching of EPMIS, the AFPPS’ office for Communications, Electronics and Information Systems (CEIS), headed by Assistant Chief of Procurement Staff for CEIS, ACPS6 Lt Col Romulo R Satparam (OS) PA, provided the assistance in resolving the issues.

The OPS6 also conducted hands-on training on concerned AFPPS personnel to familiarize them to EPMIS.

Even representatives from the end-users, who were involved in the preparation of UPRs, were also briefed regarding EPMIS where there is a standard format for UPRs.

Col Alvin Francis A Javier PA (GSC), AFPPS Commander, advocated EPMIS to promote transparency and accountability and in accordance to the AFP Transformation Roadmap which envisions to have a world-class armed forces which is a source of national pride by 2028.

The EPMIS was initially introduced early this year and is now fully implemented in all Luzon-based AFPPS units – four PCs and 16 COs.

The system is scheduled to be implemented in Visayas and Mindanao units by 3rd Quarter of 2015.

“Only a few months after the introduction of EPMIS, we are now reaping the fruits of our collective labor –faster and more efficient procurement processes without compromising transparency and accountability,” says Col Javier.

While the current system only covers shopping and negotiated mode of procurements, the AFPPS is aiming to incorporate public bidding in the program.

Additionally, Lt Col Satparam explains that a website is being developed by the OPS6 to give the MFO, Accounting Service, end-users and even accredited suppliers access to view the status of their transactions online.

“EPMIS has proven its effectiveness. The results are clear, we only have to sustain and seek further improvements to keep in step with the AFP Transformation Roadmap 2028,” concludes Col Javier.

406th CO welcomes new Chief

Maj Julius S Espiritu (QMS) PA was named as new chief of the 406th Contracting Office (CO) which caters primarily to the AFP Medical Center.

Immediately after his assumption, Maj Espiritu, along with his Assistant Chief Lt Augustus Liberator M Amatong PN, paid courtesy call to Col Joseph M Acosta (MNSA) MC, Commander, AFPMC, on 01 June 2015, same day he assumed office.

Maj Espiritu has mapped out his plans and intentions for 406th CO and relayed them to Col Acosta.

Among the immediate concerns identified were the modifications of the Therapeutic List issued by the V. Luna General Hospital (VLGH); the conduct of Market Research; addressing alleged overpricing, and the programming of AFPMC's PPMP and APP.

Regarding the Therapeutic List, Maj Espiritu recommended that V Luna General Hospital should publish a list of medicines that have harmful effects or not effective.

Col Acosta concurred with the suggestion.

On the issue of market research, it was agreed that O/MC2 will assist O/MC4 in the conduct of market research and the computation for their price index should be the average of at least three (3) good prices plus 3% to 5% contingency for the inflation rate.

To address the alleged overpricing, Maj Espiritu explained that there will be no overpricing as long as the canvassed price for the request items does not exceed the amount of the Approved Budget for the Contract (ABC) programmed by the end-user.

On programming of AFPMC's PPMP and APP, the 406th CO participated last June 10, 2015 in the presentation of the proposed PPMP and APP for CY 2016 of AFPMC. Maj Espiritu made his recommendations on various topics such as price prediction and scheduling of requirements.

In concluding the courtesy call, Maj Espiritu assured Col Acosta of his full support with regards to the procurement of AFPMC requirements.

TO MAINTAIN WELL-INFORMED PERSONNEL

AFPPS holds annual training program

To maintain a well-informed work force, the AFP Procurement Service conducted its Annual Training Program for Calendar Year 2015 last May 11 at the AFPPS Multipurpose Hall with Col Ferdinand L Torres PAF (GSC), Acting Deputy Commander, as keynote speaker.

Dubbed as “Joint Seminar on Introduction to RA 9184 & AFP Procurement Process and Contract Management”, the activity lasted for four days with 32 newly-assigned from different Procurement Centers, Contracting Offices, BAC Secretariats, and Headquarters Support Unit.

Seven main topics were tackled during the joint seminar which was culminated by presentation and addressing of a case study that participants were tasked in order to apply the knowledge they learned from the training.

The objectives of the joint seminar were to inform the participants about and let them understand the basic and documentation and terminologies that are commonly used in procurement activities and to understand the basic provisions of AFPLLD Nr PC 13-02 and its application to the procurement processes, among others.

During the closing ceremony, Col Alvin Francis A Javier PA (GSC), AFPPS Commander, acted as the keynote speaker and led the distribution of Certificates of Appreciation to the guest lecturers and certificates of Completion to the participants.

It was observed during the joint seminar that the participants were interested in the subject matters by raising questions to acquire new ideas and knowledge.

Aside from listening to the lecturers, the participants were also given the opportunity to bring out their own ideas.

Col Javier declared that the seminar achieved its objectives and vowed to continuously conduct similar training seminars to keep AFPPS personnel well-informed.

They were also given opportunities to try out ideas and received useful responses, discussed situations and problems encountered and how to solve them to maximize their creativity. Through the joint seminar the participants also tested their understanding and developed new insights, learned from other participant's approaches and ideas and clarified concepts
